

BSL SYSTEM

The BSL (Base, Shadow, Light) system is an innovative chromatic structure designed to facilitate and enhance the miniature painting process, both for amateurs taking their first steps and for experienced painters seeking a more efficient and coherent approach to their work.

The system organizes colors into chromatic families, each composed of three shades and a complementary color, designed to work together:

Base: The main color, defining the overall surface tone.

Shadow: A darker version of the same color, designed to create depth and contrast.

Light: A lighter, more luminous shade that adds volume and highlights the most exposed areas.

Complementary color: It can be an alternative to the base color or an additional shadow or highlight.

This work logic makes it possible to approach any surface with a clear understanding of light and shadow, simplifying the modeling of volume and chromatic coherence from the very first moment.

Ease of use: It is ideal for beginners. The combinations are already thought out and harmonized, avoiding common mistakes in the choice of shades.

Chromatic consistency: The colors of each family are formulated to integrate perfectly, which reduces mixing effort and ensures smooth and natural transitions.

Speed and control: For more experienced painters, it allows for an agile workflow, with less hesitation in selecting colors and more control over the final result.

Creative evolution: The system imposes no limitations: it allows combinations between families, the use of complementary shades and creative exploration without losing coherence.

The BSL system is not just a color guide: it is a pedagogical and creative tool that provides you with a solid foundation on which you can build your style, improve your techniques and achieve incredible results more easily.
