

PRINCE AUGUST

SEVEN YEARS WAR - Austria

Introduction & Assembly Instructions

3106

3107

3108

Prince August is pleased to present another addition to its new seven years war series of moulds namely the Hungarian regiments of the Austrian army. These moulds can produce infantrymen, drummers, standard-bearers, NCO's and officers of both fusilier and Grenadier units. Working in close collaboration with wargamers and experts on the period, we have produced a range of moulds whose flexibility is such that many troop types and variants can now be produced. For example if you use three new Hungarian moulds together with the 3105 Austrian (German) infantry and the four Prussian moulds you can make complete grenadier and fusilier units from both German and Hungarian regiments of the Austrian army both advancing and in march attack pose.

The Holy Roman (Austrian) emperor was also the king of Hungary and the Austrian army comprised 10 Hungarian regiments as well as the 39 Imperial or German regiments.

The Hungarian regiments incorporated some elements of their national dress in their uniforms, notably their distinctive trousers. Each regiment comprised 16 fusilier and 2 Grenadier companies. The grenadier companies would, in the field, be detached from their parent regiment and merged with grenadier companies from other regiments to form a grenadier corps.

All 10 Hungarian regiments wore a white coat (the traditional colour of the Holy Roman empire) and the distinctive Hungarian trousers. The hair of the rank and file was tied into side-plaits and only the officers had the side curls in the style of the German infantry. Standards were carried by officers.

Please note that: parts 3108/6 and 3107/4 are identical.

The 3106 mould contains the standard bearer figure and also some paper flags and 4 brass rods from which to make the flag-staff. You need to use a small hand-drill and a drill -head of 1mm diameter. Drill downwards through the upper hand of the Standard bearer casting using the small indent as a guide and continue through the indent on the lower hand until you reach the standard base. Remove the drill and insert one of the brass rods in place through the holes.
